Century Offers Classes in Afton

Century College this semester is offering high-demand, general education credit classes at its new Transportation Training Center in Afton.

Students can now take evening classes in communication, English, psychology and sociology at the attractive new building located at 14386 Hudson Road off of I-94 in Afton. During the day, the center is used for truck driver training through Century's Continuing Education/Customized Training division. CECT also will be offering driver's education this fall. Please call 651-779-5205 for more information.

Brenda Lyseng, Century's dean of extended learning, noted that the Afton location allows students in the Woodbury and Hudson, Wis., areas to attend classes closer to home, avoiding campus parking issues.

"The demand for Century classes is so high that we have run out of space on our main campus," said Lyseng. "Opening the transportation center in the evening allowed us to open more sections of courses that are in high demand. Adult students may find these evening classes a more convenient option."

The Afton classes are scheduled between 6 and 10 p.m. The courses being offered are taught by regular Century faculty and are the same courses that are taught on the main campus in White Bear Lake. Some classes are held once a week and others are held two days a week. Two communication classes are on a “fast track” schedule, which means they start in September and end in November.

Fall semester classes at Century began Monday, Aug. 23 and end Dec. 18. Spring semester begins Jan. 10, 2011.
